

The term “pre-cultural” is unavoidably associated with “pre-historical.” Japanese primatologist Kinji Imanishi (1902-1992) first used “pre-culture” to describe the particular activities of a family of monkeys in Japan. Useful link: *The Primate Research Institute, Kyoto University*

Gerald Cipriani